
Active UI Media Player launched by V2R!

Monday, 06 August 2007

Vision to Reality or V2R as it is popularly known has officially announced the availability of the Active UI based Media Player Today screen plug in for Pocket PC's powered by Windows Mobile! This software would especially be immensely favored by those addicted to music! Along with the free V2R Active UI core engine, the software offers you a vast variety of add-on in a wide spectrum of different animations and designs to give the player a personal touch and break the monotony! The V2R Active Media Player plug in allows you to choose the cover of your favourite album as your Today Screen! And what's more, you can select and access the latest music albums directly from your Today screen! If complicated software can scare the life out of you, then have no fear because this software is incredibly simple to use with easy navigation and you can effortlessly choose your favourite albums from the album list using the D-Pad, joy stick, stylus or even your thumb! There's unlimited number of album covers to use as your home screen and the high speed graphic animations are sure to catch your fancy! You can get your hands on this software from V2R for Windows Mobile 5 powered pocket PC devices, Smartphones with Windows Mobile 6 Professional and Classic PDA's. The demo version allows you to have a trial run before you actually buy it! For more information, click here!